

SLETTE FAMILY

The Slette family of New Ulm showcases the tangible impact of Nuvera fiber internet on a modern home. Their story exemplifies how our reliable, high-speed internet enhances not just daily activities but also their professional, educational, and personal lives.

Trevor Slette, Publisher at the Citizen Publishing Company—a group of three newspapers based out of Windom, MN—relies heavily on Nuvera’s fiber internet to maintain his productivity. Working remotely one day a week, Trevor accesses large photo and PDF files and proofs entire publications stored in the cloud. “We have high-speed internet at the office. To have virtually the same kind of service at our home is really nice,” Trevor shared. With Nuvera fiber, geographic location poses no barrier to top-tier professional connectivity.

Katie Slette, Clinic Director at the New Ulm Medical Center, depends on the secure infrastructure of Nuvera fiber internet, especially when she is on call for the Medical Center as a member of the senior leadership team. “It is crucial that I be able to access information in a secure and timely fashion in order to support our care teams, even if I’m not on site,” Katie emphasized. Katie has come to trust the security and reliability that Nuvera fiber internet provides.

For Cullen, the youngest member of the Slette family and a senior at New Ulm High School, Nuvera fiber internet is both an academic and recreational tool.

His school assignments often require extensive online research and access to digital resources, which fiber adequately supports. Additionally, as a passionate gamer, Cullen appreciates the unmatched download speeds that Nuvera offers. “If you come home from school and you’ve been looking forward to a certain game all day, only to find out there’s a big download you need to install, it’s really nice that it only takes a few minutes with fiber, rather than potentially hours,” Cullen said.

The Slettes’ Nuvera fiber connection enriches their daily routines in countless ways. Whether streaming music through their home sound system, never missing a Vikings game, or keeping in touch with family via video calls to Michigan and Arizona, the family has come to rely on Nuvera’s consistent performance. “Reliability and speed are really important,” Katie said.

When the family relocated from Windom to New Ulm and learned that Nuvera was expanding its fiber network in the area, they eagerly signed up. “We had fiber at our home in Windom, so when we moved to New Ulm and found out the fiber service was being expanded around town, we couldn’t wait to get it,” Katie said.

As Nuvera continues to invest in expanding our fiber infrastructure, stories like the Slettes’ demonstrate the value of our service to households and local economies alike.